COFUR the story & brand

COFUR Colonial furniture & design is a Danish brand with wholesale of exclusive wicker furniture and baskets. Further including is leather products and carpets with wintage look. All in the collection is inspired from colonial time, with timeless design, style and colors that complement the Nordic look with simplicity and neutral colors.

Stylistically in the collection there is furniture and products inspired from Karen Blixen's farmhouse and the movie "Out of Africa" and also from the more classic "British Colonial" style.

We have taken the primary inspiration to the products from vintage furniture and items found on flea markets and from our discoveries in the East, and our own design and ideas.

Since I was a child I have visited flea markets and shops with vintage furniture and other old items. I have always been fascinated in the "flash back", that is hidden in old items.

The transformation from vintage to new updated look has always been an exciting process and during many years I tried to make this as a way of living in an environment, where I can express the process and share the transformation with others who also find joy by the term that is hidden in conversion from old to new version.

I have stayed 2 years in Bangkok and during this stay I found a lot inspiration in natural rattan furniture's, and I visited hotels to study the lounge areas with wicker furnitures and especially the Orintel Hotel in Bangkok was an oasis for me during the stay.

My interest for design and interior has been my hobby during many years and besides that I have been working in a bank and real estate business, but now I finally have the possibility realize my the dream come together with Kim Henriksen, who is a fantastic mentor and driving force in the company qua his big experience with other innovative companys. Our combined skills is a perfect match and our common energy, ideas and drive never stands still.

So officially I'm not educated as a designer and I don't have any diplomat that prove my design background. I believe in our ideas and what we feel is right in the collection.

Besides colonial time I'm also very inspired by the Victorian era, and I bring some of the wicker detail into the collection from that time and add a little freshness in the wicker collection with colors. Besides nature colors the collection contains products in grey, black, white and a few items in blue and red. We make series based on the colors so there is a link between the products and the colors. All the colors subdues, which feels right in relation to my nature. Besides that the colors a based on water so there is no toxins in our rattan products, which means that the products are food safe and suitable for herbs e.g.

Another fantastic issues regard the colonial time and life in the tropics is to study how the safaris was organized with wickerbaskets and trunks, mobile champagne coolers, wine- and tea bars in leather and in general foldable furnitures that easily could be moved from lunch break to afternoon break e.g. What a sight when everything was ready on the savannah for dinner and a drink.

The wicker products are handmade in Indonesia and some of the production is made in a factory on Java island. A big part of the production is however provided by local weavers in small villages, since some of the weavers prefer to work in their home so they can work while they join their family and saves transport time to the factory. Besides the transport to the factory can be difficult and sometimes dangerous because of the weather conditions especially in the rainy season. These weavers are paid per pcs they produce, so they have the freedom to decide how much they want to work every day.

COFUR's collection is available with dealers and webshops in many countrys and the collection are regulary presented on recognized fairs in Europe.

COFUR'S UP-CYCLED KIMONO DRESS

Retired sourced vintage saree silk-mix fabrics from India are up-cycled and given new life in feminine unique kimono dresses. This is a hot trend right now with bohemian style and design. The vintage saree fabric saree are collected in Jaipur, and some towns closer to Jaipur.

In India the barter system still holds place, which is an old method of exchange. This system has been used for centuries and long before money was invented. Today, bartering has made a comeback using techniques that are more sophisticated to aid in trading, for instance the Internet. Bartering doesn't involve money which is one of the advantages. You can buy saree fabric by exchanging an item you have, but no longer want or need. Generally, trading in this manner is done through online auction and swap markets or where men and women go door to door in urban colonies to sell stainless steel utensils in exchange of old clothes and sarees. The sarees we have collected mostly come through this mean.

Once we procure these sarees, we remove the fall (lining on the bottom of the saree) to use it for cutting and stitching. After each piece is stitched we dry clean every garment before its ready to be packed.

Each kimono dress is therefore one-of-a-kind design and handmade in India.

The hot trend is to use the kimono as street fashion, but use them as well as a cardigan, as robes and at the poolside.

Bring new life and exoticism to the kimono dress and use it as fashion clothing with the expressive outfit that provides the women in India the opportunity to create a better standard of living for themselves, their children and also their communities through fair trade co-op.

Due to the upcycled and handmade nature of this item, each is unique and will vary in design and material.
